DESPITE SCORE, TILDEN VICTORY IMPRESSIVE

World's Champion Proves Superiority Over Norton by Smothering Him in Third and Fourth Sets

ALWAYS HAD PUNCH

By SPICK HALL.
BILL TILDEN has shown again that he is the peer of lawn tennis players. Every one here expected him to win the world's championship again and he did. The fact that he did it more difficult and this, added to his poor physical condition last Saturday, makes his victory over the South African, Norton, more impressive than the one indicated by the score of 4-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-0, 7-5.

That score may not indicate to the average player that Tilden showed much superiority over Norton, just the same as it does not indicate to those who know him that he is above most of the leading players of the world.

Having dropped the first two sets, Tilden came back with a rush, and won the third and fourth sets, being only one game. That surely proves that when he is at top speed Norton isn't even in his class. Tilden has always been true that he never plays his best game until pushed. Last summer at Forest Hills in the National tournament Tilden allowed Lawrence Rice to get nine games in the first set only after twenty-two minutes. Tilden was beaten by the champion 6-3, 5-4, 9-7; Sam Hardy took the first set 6-3 before he was trimmed; Vincent Richards won the second set 6-3; and Tilden in his fourth set match; Walter Westbrook, the young Detroit player, carried the second set to 8-6 and Wallace Johnson was beaten in the first set only after twenty-two minutes. Then Billy Johnston lost in five sets in the final.

Trouble with Shimidzu
In 1920 at the Queen's Club in London, Tilden made the Japanese, Shimidzu, resemble a novice. Realizing how easily he could beat him Tilden decided not to play a rushing game against the Japanese in the final at Wimbledon. In so doing he almost met defeat, the third set going to 18-11.

It is true that Tilden rarely elects to beat an opponent as badly as he can. This often makes it appear that his foe is much better than he is, and that is just what happened Saturday. Norton was within a stroke of the match, and while there is no discounting the young South African's ability, it surely is true that he is no match for Tilden, and won't be for a long while, if ever.

After Tilden had beaten Norton 6-1, 6-0 in the third and fourth sets, he was down in his game and allowed the first set to reach five all before he won it, proving once more that his confidence in himself to win when he plays often makes it appear that his opponent is doing the forcing, while as a matter of fact it is simply a let-up in Tilden's own game.

NEW YORKERS STOP A'S WITH A VOLT

Flashy Winning Streak of Two Weeks Smashed by Double Defeat of Grand Old Fourth

PHILS LOSE, OF COURSE

Mr. Mack's Athletics almost had a winning streak over the holidays. They began nobly on Saturday by trimming the Washington Club 6 to 1, with Rommel and Naylor operating on the mound. This came on the heels of a split double-header with the same club on Friday, each winning by the margin of one run. The A's thrilled by their Saturday victory, came through with a rush on the Sabbath and annihilated Schacht, Erickson and Gaines for a row of goals, winning by a dozen runs to four.

It looked as if the Mackmen might come out of the cellar as they had a pair to play with the Yankees at New York yesterday. But Toga fans were doomed to disappointment because the White Sox won both Saturday and Sunday while Huggins' team suddenly turned and slapped our A's 6 to 4 in the morning tilt of the grand old Fourth.

That defeat cut the proposed winning streak to a mere flash and the A's still reside in cool basement, but not on a level as low as the Phils. Haven't the Punch.

The Phils in their games yesterday showed a glaring lack of punch. They had numerous chances to win, but they couldn't produce the smash that would have given them a game. In the morning tilt at Fifteenth and Huntington, Boston won by the score of 6 to 4, and in the afternoon the visitors had the better of it by one run, the count standing three-two at the finish.

The Athletics played to two huge crowds at the Polo Grounds yesterday, and in the first game they gave the fans a run for their money, losing a speedily played contest, 5 to 4. The afternoon affair, however, proved to be a slaughter. The A's hurlers were hammered all over the lot and went down to an ignominious defeat, 14 to 4.

This afternoon the Phils are booked to clash with the New York Yanks again at the Polo Grounds, and the Phils are to meet Boston once more on the home lot.

Konetchy for Phils

Edward Konetchy, first baseman last year of the Brooklyn National League champions, has come to the Phils via the waiver route, according to an announcement by President Baker. The usual waiver price, $2500, was paid for the player, who was displaced by a month ago by Ray Schmandt, reserve first baseman last season.

Konetchy has been playing fourteen years in the major leagues. After three seasons of the Chicago White Sox, he was traded to the Boston Red Sox, where he played for two seasons. He was then traded to the St. Louis Cardinals in July of 1917. He played at St. Louis until 1914, when he figured in a trade with Pittsburgh.

After playing with the Pirates in 1914 Konetchy jumped to the Pittsburgh Federal League team, and in 1916, following the disbanding of the "outlaw" circuit, he was sold to the Boston Nationals. He was traded to Brooklyn at the end of the 1918 season, and played there in 1919, 1920 and the early part of this season.

Woodruff was second and La Rabius was third.

The reinstatement of Jockey Carroll Shilling to the Maryland Jockey Club, according to those close to the Jockey Club, means a war between the association which controls racing in New York State and the Maryland Jockey Club, which has been on the ground ever since despite the most powerful pressure in his interest. Jockey Shilling, formerly trainer for Commodore J. K. F. has been one of the main sponsors of the Jockey Club in its rather poor attitude to the Kentucky racing. The story of a revolt against the New York body all over the country and in Canada and its threat of "war" on Maryland will count for little.

Western Canada racing is most prosperous this season. The Toronto and Hamilton tracks had better success and the Detroit and Buffalo-Fort Erie racing forms promise to be full of health. In Eastern Canada there was less life in the sport.

DEMPSEY'S PLANS ARE YET UNCERTAIN

Jack Will Be Ready for Another Battle on Labor Day, Says Kearns

MAY MEET BILL BRENNAN

New York, July 5.—Jack Dempsey is still in seclusion. The world's heavyweight champion, glad of his freedom from the ordeal of being the center of public attention—a position he occupied without interruption for six weeks at Atlantic City while he was training for his memorable fight with Georges Carpentier—now is frolicking like an enthusiastic schoolboy.

The monotony of the training camp has been left behind and likewise worry preceding the defense of his title against a foe whose real ability was a deep, dark mystery until the entrance into the ring. The champion has his own ideas of seclusion and privacy, and he is practicing them religiously.

The titleholder spent yesterday morning about the city and surrounding suburbs, Dempsey, according to Kearns, left his quarters at the Hotel Belmont early in the morning and did not return until it was time to retire last night.

There was no announcement of the champion's plans yesterday. His immediate itinerary is uncertain. He is just enjoying himself quietly, without ostentation, adjusting himself to the reactionary conditions consequent to a battle of such importance. Kearns said the champion was motoring with friends yesterday and visited Jersey City to pay his respects to Mayor Frank Hague. Where Dempsey went after the visit Kearns didn't know. The manager declared vaguely that "the champ is out riding in the country."
